

RESIDENTIAL ACCESSORY BUILDINGS EXPLAINED

“Residential Accessory Structure” means accessory structures that are not used for human habitation, but the use of which is naturally and normally incidental to, subordinate to, or exclusively devoted to, the principal residential use or dwelling and located on the same lot therewith. Residential accessory structures may include, but are not limited to:

- a change house/cabana;
- private play structure;
- gazebo;
- dog house or dog run;
- private greenhouse;
- shed;
- patio shelter;
- enclosed swimming pool equipment,
- portable tent structures,
- basketball nets permanently affixed to the ground; and,
- stand alone solar panels;
- but shall not include a detached garage, any mechanical equipment as defined under air conditioner, or privacy screens erected on the ground (Zoning By-law 2010-40, amended by By-law 2012-74).

A detached garage is NOT a residential accessory structure; it must comply with the setbacks for the zone on the property and the maximum height is 4.6m.
